SALTS IS FINE FOR

Flush the Kidneys at Once When Back Hurts Or Bladder Bothers -- Meat Porms Uric Acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uricated which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a table-spoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous saits is made from the acld of grapes and lemon fuice, combined with littia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Oct. 14.—"My face and neck broke out with small pimples which swelled and festered until they were like boils. When I opened them they filled again and caused intense pain and loss of sleep. At last they were so disfiguring I had to give up my position and could not go anywhere. After five years of this trouble, and having used many other preparations, I tried Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. The pain and techning was relieved at once, and when I had used 1½ jars of Ointment and Resinol Soap. The pain and seven cakes of Soap I was cured. IN PETROGRAD RIOT

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 22. (By the Associated Press.)—Several thousand insurgent saliors stopped the performance at the Marinsky theater in Petrograd on Oct. 14 and compelled the orchestra to lead a march to the Smoiny institute, in protest against the order of M. Zinovieff, head of the Petrograd commune, conscripting all saliors, according to neutrals arriving here.

The Bolsheviki organized a resistance and the saliors were attacked and dereated. Many of them later were executed. Street fighting and riots continued for several days as a result of an attempt to round up the men suspected of promoting the uprising.

The saliors have been disaffected since the summary execution in June last of Admiral Stchasnig, commander of the Balitic fleet, who saved it from capture by the Germans.

Simultaneously with the outbreak in Petrograd there was trouble in Moscow, but its extent is not known. It is attributed to an uprising of the social revolutionists.

M. Ragheboom told how German soldlers had insulted and violated Lille women and how they forced 15-year-old children to work for them.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.-Now that he Germans have been cleared out of WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Now that the Germans have been cleared out of Belgian Flanders and much of northern France, army officials here are watching the battle front intently, many with a distinct feeling that a new attack may be about to break against the enemy. There is nothing to indicate that this expectancy was founded upon definite information and it probably grows out of a number of happenings of a minor character but possible important links in a chain of events soon to be disclosed.

Beyond doubt the German retirement in Belgium has slowed down. However, it is not yet clear whether this is due to the fact that the retreating forces are nearing the line which frequently has been selected as the first pausing place on the way to the Meuse or the border, or to necessities of extending allied communications as the troops advance. It is probable, officers say, that there is necessity for a breathing spell on both sides.

There is little doubt here that the German army is headed for nothing short of the Meuse line and that any pause will be but temporary. Several halts of this character may be expected, it was said, as the withdrawal is carriel out. The fact that the allied armies are hampered by extending competing the compet are now up it sufficient force to compet a reaumption of the rearward movecan come up in sufficient force to compel a resumption of the rearward move

Meuse It has been noted that heavy concentration of forces was made by the Germans on the Le Cateau-Oise-Serre front and also against American pressure northwest of Verdun.

Without question the retention of these lines unbroken was vital to the German plan. Now that the withdrawel in the north has progressed so fully, however, it would cause no surprise here if a retirement between the Oise and the Serre were undertaken without delay.

here if a retirement between the cliss and the Serre were undertaken without delay.

To many officers it seems possible that now events have so shaped the lines that a great drive may soon he undertaken, calculated to upset the whole German plan. Already the affied lines have been shortened so that considerable forces must be available for the work, particularly British. The time can not he far away, also, when the American Second army, under Maj-Gen. Bullard, will be put into play. To some observers it seems possible that a wide attack may be made by the two American armies, both east and west of the Meuse, the thrust being aimed at the great rail artery through Sedan and Montmedy. A cooperating French assault west of the Argonne would naturally be a part of such a thrust.

To other officers, however, recent French raiding operations in Alsace seem to have significance. Apparently information is desired as to the German strength on that front and as to the claracter of the troops here. Such raids invariably precede offensive operations, although they rarely disclose by their locality the exact place of the proposed attack.

So far as German peace overtures are oncerned, army officers hold that manifestly now is the time for a new and crushing blow. With the hope of early peace dangling before the eyes of the war-weary German troops, their morale will be at its lowest chb, it is said, while in the allied and American ranks the rount-shout German admissions of defeat can only give new zest for the fight.
